

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

In a method and an apparatus for determining the molecular weight of polymers, a thin layer of a polymer whose molecular weight is to be determined is formed on a substrate, the thickness of the polymer layer is determined by an ellipsometer
5 which is disposed above the substrate and the molecular weight is derived from the thickness of the polymer layer as determined by the ellipsometer.